

Understanding and calculating the range

- 1 The range is a measure of spread. It is found by finding the difference between the two extreme points; the lowest and highest values. Fill in the blank

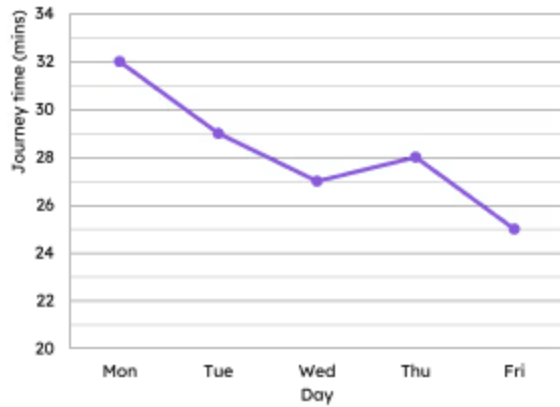

- 2 Select the data sets where you can calculate a range. Tick 3 correct answers
 - ☒ 4, 7, 5, 8, 3, 1, 0
 - ☐ cat, dog, rabbit, dog, cat, rabbit, hamster
 - ☒ -4, -2, -5, -1, 0, -7
 - ☒ 5, 5, 5, 5, 5, 5, 5, 5, 5
 - ☐ ash, birch, oak, maple, sycamore, oak

- 3 A large data set has the extreme values of 24.6 and 59.2. The range of the data set is 34.6. Fill in the blank

- 4 Which of these dot plots is most varied? Tick 1 correct answer

- 5 This line graph shows data about journey times to school over a week. The range of the journey times is 7 minutes. Fill in the blank

- 6 Which of these bar charts show data with a range of 4? Tick 2 correct answers

