

Ratio language and notation

1 Why do we use symbols and notation in mathematics? Tick 4 correct answers

- ☒ They are easier to read and understand.
- ☒ They are concise and take up less space.
- ☐ They are pretty.
- ☒ They can be used to represent complex concepts.
- ☒ It allows mathematical ideas to be communicated more effectively than words.

2 Which of the following is equivalent to "For every 3 circles, there are 4 squares."? Tick 3 correct answers

Circles	Squares
1	4

Circles	Squares
3	4

☐
☒
☒
☒

3 A number and its reciprocal will always have a product of 1. Fill in the blank

4 For every 5 ml of orange concentrate, use 100 ml of water. What is the multiplier for orange to water? Fill in the blank

20

5 For every 5 ml of orange concentrate, use 100 ml of water. To make 420 ml of squash, how much concentrate do you need? Fill in the blank

20

6 For every 2 cups of flour, there are 3 cups of water. If there are 13.5 cups of water, how many cups of flour are there? Fill in the blank

9

